

Add Users

Now that you have created a company, established your departments, roles (permission sets) and set up the content sources for your users, you can now add your users and group them into departments. Later you can adjust permissions and content sources on a user-by-user basis as necessary.